

11/30/06

Dear Joyce:

I think nominating Sean Buvala for the NSN Distinguished National Service Award is an outstanding idea. Sean has not only offered tremendous exposure and service for storytellers and storytelling through storynet.org, but he has been significant and innovative in bringing storytelling into the 21st Century via his knowledge and skills with the Internet.

We take for granted many things today that have now become commonplace. I remember Sean Buvala a decade ago helping me and others enter into a realm that we knew virtually nothing about, namely the Internet. He guided us, helped us, and encouraged us to get ourselves out there into cyberspace and into the future of how to conduct a business in today's world. His help over the years goes unquestioned, and I think he is the ideal candidate for this award.

Sincerely,
Judy Gail

Judy Gail
Miami, Florida

judygailstories@cs.com
http://www.writeonspeakers.com/judy_gail <http://www.nwhp.org> (look under national performers, Judy Gail)